Mr Tariq Al Ghussein, the re-elected President of Eurovent Middle East, confirms: "We see the relieve of our members over the resumption of physical meetings. We have all missed the networking and direct exchange among colleagues. I am very happy to see the resilience we have shown as an association. The contributions from our members, the engagement from the Board members and the persistence of our Team has been impressive during these two years."

Mr Markus Lattner, Managing Director of Eurovent Middle East, adds, "What a pleasure to be back in real action. Having our members with us in the same room again and elaborating on the planned activities is rejuvenating. We can finally move forward with essential projects which will bring tangible change to the region in terms of energy efficiency and IAQ. We are thrilled to move forward and celebrate our fifth anniversary with more activities again."
